The Material Aid & Advocacy Program (MAAP) is a one-stop resource for community members who are low-income or experiencing homelessness in the Greater Boston Area. MAAP provides participants with free material aid including clothing, household goods, survival supplies and hygienic items. MAAP supports those we serve in meeting their wider needs by providing critical information including all the information necessary for individuals to access shelters, food pantries, community meals, employment assistance and more independently via our Resource Guides. Annually MAAP serves over 2,000 individuals and families referred by over 80 service providers and community organizations from the Greater Boston Area. We are committed to treating all participants with dignity and respect, and provides a safe space to share resources, build community and move forward together. MAAP also advocates alongside and on behalf of those we serve for their immediate needs, such as humane and dignified treatment in shelters and improved shelter conditions, as well as long-term solutions to homelessness including increased affordable housing, expanded voucher programs and housing first initiatives.
